

Votum Hood River Culinary Internship

Votum is an ambitious fine dining restaurant located in Hood River. Our menu is seafood focused and chef-driven. We change the menu every few days to reflect the best of what the PNW has to offer. Our fish and shellfish is sourced locally and from around the world. We offer a chef's tasting menu as well as a-la-carte dining. We offer a traditional European style of fine dining; white linens pressed by service staff, attentive wine service and pairing, candy and migniondes after the meal...

Our chef and Maître de hotel have experience working at Michelin starred restaurants in the SF Bay area, and have a lot of experience and knowledge to pass on to an ambitious and hardworking candidate.

The internship could be a general culinary experience, or could be catered to pastry or the service end of the business.

Candidate Requirements:

- Desire and willingness to learn
- High attention to detail
- Respect for food, farmers, producers

Duties/Objectives:

- Prepare classical stocks and sauces
- clean, process, prepare live shellfish (oysters, butter clams, cockles, geoduck, crab, etc)
- prepare vegetables and entrée-sides
- modern preservation techniques
- plating and finishing
- work directly with chef and sous chef on the line during service
- sourdough bread, viennoiserie, ice cream, sorbet, granita, chocolate work, cultured dairy products (cheese, butter, etc), candy and confections, raw fish and shellfish preparations

Hi Hillary,

I spoke to you on the phone a few weeks ago, and I was hoping that you could post/share our internship opportunity for culinary students. The internship would be 3 months long, 38 hours a week and pay $15 an hour through the Youth compass program (administered through the Columbia Gorge Community College).

See attached description.

Let me know if you have any questions or need anything additional from me.

Thanks,

Sarah Doyle
